

BACKGROUND

We provide knowledge and expertise in plant taxonomy, horticulture, biodiversity inventory, conservation biology, and restoration ecology and ethno botany – all key elements for achieving successful restoration.

The project was fully adopted by Mintails Mine in 2014 (as part of the mine's Local Economic Development project), and that will also have Social Labour Plan programme personality as per government's directive.

Mintails Mine allocated land space of 1 Hector through a "Right of Use" signed legal contract as negotiated. The enterprise is currently ran and managed by Oupa Banda, who is qualified in nursery management.

The project has further enjoyed a strategic labour force intervention funding through the Gauteng Department of Agriculture and Rural Development, in relations to the Extended Public Works Programme (EPWP), where 15 young people are employed from the community and paid a stipend to assist the project with human resource.
