

Kota Beer & wine tour

Kota: is a township slang word it means Quoter the township people have take that word made it sound cool, Rigid in sound but smooth and tasty to the tongue, it usually used to be a very simple combination of A quoter of sliced bread, chips, pollony, Russian( sausage and some kind of ham), potato and mince including Atchaar ( a South African spicy salad made out of Mango and exotic Herbs) the Atchaar always brought the Juicy flavour to the dish.

Nowadays Kota has transformed it has become a dish that offers a platform for young Ghetto youth to become more creative, they have spiced it up the kota and added more ingredients to the Original Menu.

The Township Burger has become a bus full of variety and mouth watering taste; it now has the bread, chips, Russian,Pollony( sausage and some kind of ham) different kinds of Burgers, different kinds of relish, soup, potatoes and mince, different kinds of Sauces, Gourmet kota, and vegetable kota. There are no more boundaries, it has become a classical dish that even kfc has brought onto its Menu.

On the Kota tour we explore all the different options across at least 2-3 different townships, looking for the best kota we can find-it is a treasure hunt or an amazing race to find the best tasting kota there is to find in Joburg- it is part of the culture to sit down with your friends or acquaintances and debate which space in Joburg hits the spot when it comes to Kotas, we bring in that element on tour.

While on the Journey we visit a beer factory where guests get to select a beer of their choice which they think can match the next kota at the next kota hot spot; guests can buy however many beers they want but they must at least have one that will match the taste of the Kota.

In every spot we go to in all the Townships they will serve us at least 3 to four different kinds of Kotas, in one Table all portions will be properly divide to experience the difference tastes, we will mostly do nibbling so guest don't get to overwhelmed and full quickly because Kotas are very tasty and tempting; one can find themselves finishing a whole chunk of Kota.

In between tastes we have some interesting stop's that steal the guests from the Kota experience, were we touch on the History of an area or significant stories of the area, do a little Shopping then Get back on the road to Kota land.

Tour ends off a nice Boujee restaurant where guests will have wine and any dish of their choice as part of the Culinary tour; the aim is to cross cultures and experience all the tastes of food there is to get out there, after all the thrill of running around and searching for the best Kota in town, meeting and interacting with different people from the townships and understanding the Backgrounds of where each kota is Crafted; guests can now get to sit down relax have a glass of wine and Appreciate the over all experience of the day.
